SALT LAKE CITY, UTAH: SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 22, 1890.

Minnesota, proceeded to address House on the world's fair bill.

Mills, of Texas, made a speech objecting to the bill altogether as a matter with which the government should have nothing to do. He would vote for St. Louis as the site, and when that question was decided. would vote against the bill altogether.

only, but to show them our great country. He would vote for St. Louis and next for Chicago. He disapproved of the bills presented by the committee. Congress had no authority to hold a fair elsewhere than in the District of Columbia or the territor-ies. He opposed the appropriation of $1,-000,000. If any state wanted a fair its citimens had only to incorporate themselves and hold it. He would vote for the bills only after they had been amended to meet his views.

Washington, Feb. 21.—Commissioner Groff, of the general land office, has rendered a decision in the celebrated Peralto for the cel of St. Louis man, of Illinois, was for a fair not as an accommodation to foreigners, but as an educational aid to the people of this country. He was in favor of St. Louis, because it offered the best guarantee of the

Hatch, of Missouri, pleaded that the fair se held at St. Louis, the great center of all trade and commerce of this country. Con-tinuing, Hatch ridiculed New York's site He described Forest park at St Louis, with its magnificent grove and 1,380 acres where said he, "you can pick up your little park and dump it down three times."

Outhwate, of Ohio, said the fair should be held beyond the Alleghenies. Obeying the joint resolution of the Ohio legislature and his own impulses he favored Chicago. Mason, of Illinois, made a long speech favoring Chicago. The southern brothers charged the Republicans with unkindness and loose criticism in political matters. They in turn charged the southern people with the same faults, and bitterness was aroused. How could this be stopped better than by meeting on common cause, and come to Chicago see whether her hospitality differed from that of Georgia, Mississippi or Kentucky, Kerr, of Iowa, spoke of the glories of Chicago's rise. It had pluck and rash and energy, and would make the fair a success. Kerr, of lowa, believed a fair held in the east would not exhibit the true wealth of the country. It should be held in the great west and in Chicago.

Owen, of Indiana, said that if any place had carned it, it was Chicago. The logic of geographical location and popular feeling all inclined to Chicago.

Springer dwelt upon the great expense of holding a celebration at New York. He referred to the failure of New York to complete the Grant monument, Deslact $5,000,000 needed for buildings at New York and but $5,000,000 would be left of the Albany appropriation. Compare that with the Chicago proposition—$10,000,000 in unoney and a site. Chicago would ask but $50,000 or $60,000 from the government, and that for its own exhibit. He referred to the contest at Albany, and quoted the declaration of one of the state senators that to him the bill was a crow and he that to him the bill was a crow and he would enthis share. If the fair was located at New York in all probability it would be a failure. It was the opinion of the ablest lawyers of New York that the Albany bill was unconstitutional, and that the tax-payers could successfully resist the impopayers could successfully resist the imposition of the charge.

Flower said that as the gentlemen had questioned the value of the bonds New York proposed to offer, he was himself leady to take all of them at par.
Fitch, Danphy, Lansing, Spinola, Wallace, Raines, Turnor, McCarthy and Farquhar spoke for New York.
Caudler closed the debate in a few words, saving the country could safely trust the saying the country could safely trust the House to discharge its full duty, and he hoped for a favorable conclusion upon the question next Monday. The House then took a recess. The evening session will be for the consideration of private bills.

The House in evening session passed forty private pension bills and adjourned till Monday.

> commissioner says: "You have ascer-tained the facts in the case and report that there is no claim under the laws, usages and customs of Spain and Mexico, and furthermore the present petitioners have no connection with the alleged grantee. Reavis at first based his alleged rights upon purchases from certain individuals, but that chain of title through mesne conveyances he has voluntarily abandoned, it ems, as untenable, and now rests entirely on the title of his wife as the le ent and only living heir of that Peralto to whom the King of Spain is said to have given a principality. In this claim, con-sanguinity and descent are set up for Mrs. Reavis, a verity which could be established to the satisfaction of a court, It does not so appear from the proofs submitted, which are of too dubious a character to warrant such a conclusion. Her heirship is not proven, even allowing the papers produced to be genuine. Suspicion sur-rounds the case as presented at every step from its inception to the present time. The papers claimed as ancient documents, and exhibited as muniments of title, are full of exampled as muniments of thie, are full of inconsistencies and anachronisms, and ut-terly unworthy of faith or credit. The most reprehensible frauds have been at-tempted in this case by some one at some time. I have no doubt the most material ngredient of the claimant's prima factitle is also lacking, leaving no one to invoke his aid or act without it, even if the claim was founded in fact. In the absence of a grant and grantee, the mere assertions of one or the other can invest no right and impose no duty."
